C. E. Peyton Describes Showing in the Huntsman.

RICH ORE IN MAMMOTH

HIGHLAND BOY MINE TO DOU-BLE ITS FORCE.

C. E. Peyton is back from the La Sal district, in Grand county, where he has just put a force of men to work on the old Huntsman mine, seven miles from Richardson. It is now owned by Mr. Peyton, a brother, and Sold at Low Figures, While Lower L. H. We'den of Illinois and one of these days they expect to convert it into one of the big corper-producing mines of the state. The vein averages something like fourteen feet and at difsomething like fourteen feet and at dif-ferent times and places assays run-ning from 27 to 7,000 ounces in silver and from 8 to 20 per cent copper have been obtained. The best average struck in the main vein, Mr. Peyton says, is about three feet wide and earries about 12 per cent in the red metal. Mr. Pey-ton brought up several large samples of ore which have not yet been tested, but which he hopes will show good average values.

Average values.

He confirms the story brought up by S. N. King a few days ago to the effect that a fine quartz ledge had been discovered in the mountains back of the Wilson mesa and says it has caused considerable excitement. His property is located some fifteen miles from the new discovery and great as from the new discovery and great as from the new discovery and great as the distance is in a mountainous coun-try, all the claim owners in his section were in possession of the news within a very few days. The Colorado cona very few days. The Colorado contingent in the district and it is a large one, is particularly jubilant over the find and ail are now predicting big things for the future. A great deal of prospecting and development work is now going on in different parts of the section and Mr. Peyton is confident that the coming year will witness all kinds of activity. He spent about two weeks in camp and returned well pleased with what he learned regarding the section's possibilities.

Everything Being Put in Readiness for the Increased Production.

Manager H. F. Poland of the Highland Boy, was at his desk again yester day, after having spent a day at the mine. Preparations are now being made, he reports, to change the cables and other paraphernalia of the aerial tram from its present terminal at the mouth of No. 6 to the new terminal at the mouth of No. 7 tunnel. This will require three or four days' time and ore hauling will necessarily have to be suspended during the operation. No inconvenience will be occasioned at the smelter, however, as the tonnage in the bins at the plant will be more than sufficient to keep the works supplied during the close down of the tram. At the mine 118 men are now employed and when the output is increased to 500 tons per day, as it will be within the next two weeks, the force at the mine will be increased to about 225 or day, after having spent a day at the mine will be increased to about 225 or 230 men.

The work of relaying the track in No. 7 tunnel and equipping it with heavier rails is progressing nicely and a very few days will see everything in apple-pie order to meet the increased output.

AT THE HONORINE.

The Shaft Going Down Over a Foot a Day.

Very good headway is now being made in sinking the shaft from the made in sinking the shaft from the tunnel level at the Honorine mine. About eighty feet below the water level has been reached and with good luck the 160-foot mark will be reached about the middle of next month when a crosscut will be run out to open the ore chute. Superintendent Raddatz has kept things moving in fine shape since the power and pumping facilities were increased and the chances for very shortly getting a good understanding of the extent and value of the sulphide ore bodies in the old bonanza are now considered bright.

WORK ON IRON CAP.

West Tintic Property Getting Ready for the Railroad.

A crew of four men was recently put to work on the Iron Cap company's West Tintic property and the management feels so encouraged over the prospects for the new Los Angeles road cutting close to its ground that arcutting close to its ground that arrangements will likely be made to continue operations indefinitely. The shaft is now down in the ledge, which is between fifteen and twenty feet wide, something like forty feet. Assays on the ores all show from 20 to 30 per cent from and from 3 up to 20 per cent copper, with small values in gold. Much of the vein matter will average probably 9 per cent copper and 20 per cent from and with a little more depth the property should show exceptional values.

The trading on 'change yesterday began with Consolidated Mercur, and 1,200 shares changed hands. The opening sale was made at 2.30. From there it fell to $3.26, rose to $3.27½ and then gradually recoded, closing on a sale at $3.22½.

Lower Mammoth came next, and under offerings which reached nearly 12,000 shares it rose steadily from the obsaing to close of call. The first sale was made at $1.33, nearly 10c above Thursday's best price, and it never stopped rising to the end, when a sale was made at $1.51. The release ordered yesterday by Judge Hiles was in the case of James F. Howells, alias "Silver Tip," who has been serving a sentence of ten years on a conviction of attempting to commit murder in Wayne county, and as in all of the recent applications for liberation on habeas corpus proceedings, it was set up that his conviction on prosecution by the district attorneys instead of by the county attorney was profed and strong.

the county where the crime was committed, to be retried.

The application of George Leonard for release, after he had been rearrested following the granting of a writ of habeas corpus, was withdrawn by Attorney Tatlock. District Attorney F. E. Woods of the Seventh district, argued that the plea of once in jeopardy was meretricious and Judge Hiles announced that the question pleaded in bar to further prosecution was one that a jury should pass upon and had no proper place in a habeas corpus proceeding. Attorney Tatlock then withdrew the application and Leonard will be taken back to Emery county by Sheriff Leamaster to be retried on the charge of burglary, upon which he was convicted and sentenced.

The hearing today on the writ granted to James W. Beddo will be the sepond time the prisoner has been before the court. On Dec. 3 Judge Cherry refused to release the prisoner because the remittitur from the supreme court had not then been sent down.

Charles H. Briggs, who is serving a twenty-year sentence for killing Policeman Strong at Provo, will also have his application for release heard today.
